The New Compromise

A Washington letter says: The compromise foreshadowed in correspondence as likely to be proposed on the part of the South, as a means of extricating the country from the dilemma in which it is involved in the matter of reconstruction, appears to be getting into shape, so that it may soon be put before the people. Negro suffrage is regarded by leading Southern men as preferable to the disfranchisement proposed in the Constitutional Amendment, and they believe that in a comparatively brief time the people of the South can be brought to the point where they will concede it if it can be made the basis of a settlement of the whole difficulty, and secure a general amnesty for participation in the rebellion, and a restoration of their former status in the Union. The subject is receiving much attention, and is the theme of general discussion in political circles here especially. There is reason to believe that the conference at the White House of several members of the Cabinet, and other leading men, with the President, was on this matter, and that Mr. Johnson desires to get it in such shape as to enable him to bring it out in his annual message. There is much speculation as to the view Congress will take of the subject. The proposition is favorably received by many even of those who are considered as extreme Radicals, they believing that with the ballot in the hands of the freedmen, the Southern States can be kept out of the control of the secession leaders without other restrictions. This is the question absorbing public attention here now, and it will doubtless soon agitate the whole country North and South. All admit the necessity for a prompt and equitable settlement of the existing difficulties, and if this proposition should prove acceptable to the people, as it is believed it will, both North and South, the embarrassments of the situation will be obviated.

Another letter says: By the act of Congress, approved July 17, 1862 the President was authorized, at any time thereafter, by proclamation, to extend to pesons who participated in the rebellion pardon and amnesty, with such exceptions and at such time and on such conditions as he may deem expedient for the public welfare.

Mr. Johnson is now being urged to exercise this prerogative, while he can, as Congress may, by a two-third vote, repeal the law at the coming session. And to make this wholesale act of Executive clemency acceptable to the loyal Northerners, he has been advised to couple it with a "condition" that the right of suffrage must be impartially extended to all at the South, without distinction of color, either on an educational or a property basis.

Whether the President will issue such a proclamation, or whether he will recommend such action in his forthcoming message remains to be seen. But there are many indications that universal amnesty and impartial suffrage will be adopted at the White House.

British Civilization.

Horrible cases of beastly depravity and barbarism are constantly discovered in various benighted parts of Queen Victoria's dominions. Squalor and crime and the most disgusting forms of licentiousness abound in the great cities; besotted brutality and ignorance in the mining districts and terrible destitution and moral obtuseness among the peasantry. One of the worst instances we have lately heard of is described in a Scotch paper. A colony of tinkers were found living in a cave by the sea, not far from Glasgow. Men and women, fathers and mothers of families, lads, girls, and little children, were found living in that den in a condition defying description, and which would awaken feelings of horror did it refer to the Zulus or Hottentots. Some of them, even the eldest, were lying on the ground in a state of complete nudity, and seemed to feel no shame in being discovered in that condition. Only one woman appeared to be rather ashamed, but the others sat up and conversed as if they had been decently clad or covered in their beds. These wretched creatures are said to earn money enough to live on comfortably; but they spend it all in drink. Hadn't Exeter Hall better exercise itself less about Borrioboola Gha, and send a few missionaries to labor among the savages nearer home?

The Human Hair Market.

What will the ladies do now for chignons and coils and water-falls? One of the main sources of supply has lately been cut off in a very different way to that which has hitherto been the custom. The municipal council of the Department of Correge, in France, have decided that the practice so prevalent of late years for the young women of Normandy and Brittany to sell their hair in the market places of their respective villages was highly immoral, and therefore passed a statute forbidding the practice. The custom has been that those who wished to dispose of their chevelure should wear bright ribbons in their chignon, which were synonymous with the words, "Look at my hair, it is for sale." Hair-venders were then privileged to go up to the girl, untie the ribbons, examine the hair, and bargain as to the price. As soon as this knotty point was decided, the purchaser, armed with scissors, cut off his merchandise, leaving but a few short curls in front.

Denominational Coalition.

A London letter says: We have in London an organization for bringing about a union between the Churches of Rome and England. It includes a certain number of the members of both churches—those of the Church of England being considerably in the majority—and there is a newspaper and a magazine specially devoted to the work. The leaders on the Protestant side are men who yield everything to authority, and are devotees who are unknown in the great world of science or practical secular exertion. But these are not the only set who preach and seek to practice union with Rome. There is a set here—a mere handful, I admit—of High-churchmen who are neither ritual mad nor dissatisfied with Protestant dogma, who yet have a sort of intellectual sympathy with a similar section of Catholics, who are looked upon with anxiety by their church. A dozen gentlemen, half Liberal Catholics and half Liberal High-churchmen, have united to start a weekly paper—to commence at the beginning of the new year—and which is to take a new view of passing events. I own to be exceedingly curious to note the result. Sir John Acton, who supplies most of the means, is a sort of Rationalistic Catholic—judging from the Home and Foreign Review, which he formerly conducted. He seeks to find room in his church for all the discoveries of science and learning, although the result is fatal to many of the creeds of his system. He was compelled to stop the Home and Foreign Review by orders from Rome. Why the same censure should not apply to him if his opinions are unchanged, when he writes in a weekly paper, I cannot understand. The Highchurchmen on the paper are, as far as I know them, scholarly men, of liberal political ideas, and certainly with not much sympathy for the leading distinctive articles of faith in the Roman communion.

How He Overreached Himself.—The Milwaukee Bohemian tells a good love story eclipsing anything given by the immortal Byron. Emily and Charley loved each other tenderly, but the poor girl's parental ancestor was indignant and would not consent to give his child to a "poor mechanic." Charles was forbidden the house—Emily was closely watched and daily lectured, but would not renounce her Charles. In her distress she found a warm friend in her mother, who, as the slang expression has it, had "been there," and unknown to her lord she assisted the young couple. At last the "stern parent" was called away on business, when Charles was invited to the house—but in a short time a heavy step was heard—Charles was secreted in Emily's bedroom—the parent entered—smelt a mice—when Emily admitted that Charles had been there, but was gone. The father stamped and swore, and at last locked Emily in her room, where she was to remain until he chose to release her. The door was not opened till next morning, when the sight that met his eyes caused him to stand aghast. Tall swearing was done for half an hour—then came reflection, and anger was appeased, and before sundown a couple started on a bridal tour.

Amende Honorable.—The Parkersburg Gazette, after stating that the article reflecting upon the character of Capt. Pelletier, a heavy oil operator, had gained admission to its columns in the absence of its editor, says: "We are personally acquainted with Capt. Pelletier, and believe him to be a gentleman, courteous, frank and honest, and believe he has been done great injustice. We have before us a letter signed by McConaughey, Jones & Camden, A. B McFarland and J. A. Williams, the parties who were charged with having been swindled by Captain Pelletier, stating that Captain Pelletier's business relations with them had been fair and honorable, which brands with falsehood the article above alluded to. We make this statement not only for the purpose of vindicating Capt. Pelletier, but in justice to ourselves, believing that the columns of a newspaper is not the proper place to ventilate private malice or personal quarrels."

President Johnson Favors It

Gen. Dix Has His Instructions.

The Cases of the Condemned Fenians.

Investigations of Retrenchment Committee.

Appointments in Regular Army Completed.

The President's Message on National Finances.

Special Dispatch to the Pittsburgh Commercial.

WASHINGTON, November 19, 1866.

The President and Negro Suffrage.

The National Republican to-day says that President Johnson is in favor of granting suffrage to all colored men, wherever the Constitution gives him the power to do so, who can read and write, or who served honorably in the Union army, or who own property to the extent of two hundred and fifty dollars and upwards. The editor also says: "He authorized us, in behalf of the Chief Executive of the nation, to urge qualified suffrage for the colored men of this district in April last, and at his suggestion, we renewed the proposition again in July, only about one week before Congress adjourned."

Gen. Dix Receives His Instructions.

General Dix received from Secretary Seward this afternoon, full documentary instructions as Minister to France. He also had an interview with the President, and left to-night for New York, whence he sails on Saturday for Paris.

The Condemned Fenians.

A special agent of the Government arrived to-day from Canada, with additional copies of certified evidence taken in the recent trials, and in which the Fenians were convicted. Nothing further will be done by this Government in the premises until the reply of the British Government is received to Sir Frederick Bruce's and Secretary Seward's correspondence.

Retrenchment.

The joint Committee on Retrenchment, appointed at the last session of Congress, have made an extensive investigation into Northern Post Offices and Custom Houses, and to-day commenced taking evidence in the departments here. They will recommend some radical reforms in all of the Custom Houses.

The Cleveland Postoffice.

The Cleveland Postoffice seems settled for the present. The Postmaster General is opposed to making any change before the fourth of March. The pressure for a change has therefore ceased.

Gone to Texas.

Senator Doolittle has done to Texas on private business, and will not be here at the opening of the session of Congress.

The Regular Army Register.

The trouble over the staff appointments in the new regular army has been settled, and the last appointment made. The complete register will, therefore, be made public in a few days. It will treble the size of the present army register.

Personal.

The President to-day gave a brief audience to Congressman elect John Morrissey.

General James Brownlow, son of Governor Brownlow, was to-day made a captain of cavalry in the regular army, and ordered to San Francisco.

Generals Frank Blair and Stoneman were at the White House to-day.

General Robert E. Lee is in town.

The Vacant Ohio Judgeship.

There is quite a commotion among the politicians about the vacant Northern Ohio Judgeship. Mayor Senter, of Cleveland, is here urging Franklin J. Backus for the place. Colonel Sherman, brother of General and Senator Sherman, is also among the candidates.

Dismissals in Pension Bureau.

Fifteen clerks were dismissed to-day by the Secretary of the Interior, from the Pension Bureau. The dismissals were not on political grounds, but from the great falling off in the applications for pensions.

Failure of Cotton Crop.

Adjutant General Thomas has returned from a trip through the South, and reports the cotton crop almost a total failure. He says that about every Northern man who invested in growing cotton has lost money.

The Message of the President.

A goodly portion of the forthcoming annual message of the President will be devoted to comments on our national finances, and to that end he has been consulting with Chief Justice Chase and Secretary McCulloch.

Prize Fight This Morning.

A steamboat load of the sporting fraternity left to-night for a trip down the Potomac, to witness a prize fight to come off at daylight.

Recommended for Appointment.

The Attorney General to day recommended to the President the appointment of Sherlock J. Andrews, of Cleveland, for the Judge of the Northern District of Ohio.

WASHINGTON, November 19, 1866.

THE NAVY.

The United States Register for 1867, compiled by J. Disturnell, and not yet printed, shows that of six hundred vessels belonging to our navy at the close of the war, 294 were in the service last week. About all the useless vessels have been sold. On the list now are sixty iron clads, six frigates and sixty-five ships of the line. The Government makes the following classification, referring to size rather than the quality of the vessels: Thirty-one first rate ships of war, 686 guns; 48 second rate, do., 606 guns; 80 third rate do., 881 guns; fourth rate do., 390 guns; total number, 294; guns, 2,563. In the first rate, we understand, are placed the vessels of 2,500 tons and over.

SENATOR HARLAN ADVOCATES UNIVERSAL SUFFRAGE.

United States Senator Harlan to-night addressed a public meeting at the Fair building, on Pennsylvania avenue. His auditors were about equally divided between whites and blacks. His theme was the moral, political and social necessity of conferring suffrage on citizens of African descent throughout the country. He read from speeches and statements to show that the President of the United States himself was in favor of it. He expressed the belief that if those who were present would petition Congress for impartial suffrage, there would be no difficulty in the passage of a law for that purpose. Other orators addressed the meeting.

BARBARITY IN CANDIA.

The United States Consul at Corea writes, under date of October 14th, to the Secretary of State, as follows: "I hope that our Government will be able in some way to contribute to the relief of the unfortunates who are already deprived of all provision made against the winter, and even in many cases of any means of obtaining a living, by the barbarous severity of the Government forces, and who destroy not only stores of provisions, etc., but even the houses and implements, and in many cases the vineyards of those whose only offense has been to escape at the approach of a soldiery of whose humanity they had good reason to doubt. If the charity of the friends of humanity is not large towards the Cretans, thousands must perish the coming winter.

MARINE DISASTER.

Commander Cooper, of the United States ship Winooski, informed the consul that the keeper of the light house Hole-in-the-Wall told him that a vessel or fragments of a vessel broken up was found a few miles from the Winooski loaded with iron and machinery for a saw mill, dry goods, &c., and that he took them to be American from the fact of having found two pieces of bunting, a small part of the Union and a part of the stripes, on the broken and ragged parts of the rocks. The shipping mark on one piece of the machinery was H. P. D. The vessel was wrecked in the late hurricane of October, and no doubt all hands on board perished, as five bodies were found on the beach.

REBEL NEWSPAPER RESUSCITATED.

The Charleston Mercury was issued this morning, for the first time since February, 1865. It admits editorially that the war annihilated the theory of State rights, and proposes to devote itself in future to the development of Southern interests.

CHOLERA IN PALERMO.

The Consul at Palermo, says the cholera at that city has become epidemic. From the time the troops landed, September 18, to October 17, it was only in a sporadic form. The Consul learns that on the 19th, which in the official bulletin is marked 217 cases, there were 131 deaths.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

The President has given directions that leave of absence for twenty-four hours be granted to all the Masons in the public departments who desire to participate to-morrow in the laying of the corner stone of the new Masonic temple in Baltimore.

APPOINTMENTS.

The President to-day appointed D. M. Leatherman, of Tennessee, Commissioner on the part of the United States to universal exhibition to be held at Paris in 1867; Richard Bealan, Deputy Postmaster at Ann Arbor, Michigan.

MORRISSEY AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

PROMOTION.

Commodore Craven has been promoted to the rank of Rear Admiral, to date from October 10th.

CLERK OF THE HOUSE.

Edward J. Dana, of Vermont, has been appointed Assistant Clerk of the United States House of Representatives.

From Galveston, Texas.

GALVESTON, November 19.—Ortega and his party remain at Brazos, guests with the commander of the colored United States troops. He has signified his intention not to return to New Orleans.

Heavy rains have delayed the inland locomotion, performed on horseback.

A Presidential Coup D'Etat.

The Impartial Suffrage Question.

Desire to Harmonize Congress and the Executive.

The President Favors Qualified Suffrage.

NEW YORK, November 19.—The morning papers have the following Washington dispatches: The statements made to day by a number of the leading representative men of both the Republican and Democratic parties, tend to confirm the intimations that have leaked out from the recent consultations at the White House, that the President is on the eve of a grand coup d'etat that will gratify his friends and bewilder his enemies. It is safe to conclude, at the very least, that there is an earnest desire on both sides to settle upon a feasible plan of securing harmonious action between Congress and the Executive in the future.

On the same subject the Tribune has the following: Mr. Chase's first interview with the President was merely to give the latter some opinions in judicial matters, and the second interview merely a friendly one, and Judge Chase took occasion to advise Mr. Johnson to depart from his policy, and urge the Southern legislatures to adopt the Constitutional Amendment, as a final settlement of the present difficulties, and that in case they objected to the second and third clauses of the amendment, to compromise by substituting universal amnesty, and impartial suffrage. Not only has Judge Chase urged this course on the President, but so also have several prominent men of his own party, from North and South—C. C. Clay among the latter. Whether these arrangements, and the facts on which they are based, will change the course of the President remains to be seen.

A couple of Democratic Congressmen who lately conversed with Mr Johnson, state that he has no idea of altering his present policy, and claim that the elections have had no effect except to make him more determined in his old plan. They claim, with what truth is uncertain, that he insists that the people were hoodwinked and deluded, and will soon begin to see their mistake and adopt his views.

Mr. Johnson has not indicated his purpose relative to the amnesty suffrage plan, mentioned in the dispatches on Friday last, though the gentlemen who advocate the proposition represent that the President has given them encouragement to expect that he will adopt their suggestions substantially, if not exactly in the form they advise. Several newspaper correspondents have tried to create doubts of the existence of such a combination of leading men, for the purpose of inducing the President to accept the proposition and advise the Southern people, as set forth in my dispatch. In order to put at rest such doubts, I am ...

INDIAN ATROCITIES.

Narrative of Ransomed Captives—Fiendish Cruelty of the Savages.

LEAVENWORTH, KANSAS, November 15.—The Times of this morning has a full account of the ransom from the Kiowa Indians of a white family by Lieutenant Hesselburger, of the 3d United States Infantry, which is stationed at Fort Dodge. The prisoners all belonged to one family, and at the time they were taken by the Indians were returning from a visit to some sick relatives, and were but a few miles from home when surprised and captured.

In the melee that ensued the head of the family, James Box, was killed and scalped. The remaining members of the family were immediately placed on animals and hurried to the haunts of the savages. The names of the captured were Mrs. Box, a child eleven months old, and her three daughters—Margaret, aged seventeen years; Josephine, sixteen years old, and Ada, seven years old. In the haunt of this relentless foe the child fell from the arm of its mother while the Indians were goading the worn-out animal that carried her. It was crushed to death among the rocks, the mother not being allowed to dismount and see it.

The mother and the two eldest daughters were subject to the most unheard of cruelty and outrages by their brutal captors, while the youngest, owing to her youth, although spared a fate less horrible, was nevertheless most barbarously used. The child, unable to understand the commands of her fiendish taskmasters, was placed upon live coals until she was totally roasted.

When rescued, she had almost forgotten her mother tongue. Lieutenant Hesselburger and his party, after the treaty with the Indians, returned to the post, and procuring the necessary ransom, again betook themselves to the camp of the Kiowas. Arriving there the two eldest girls were delivered to him, he paying a sum of money to the Indians that owned them, so as to prevent a repetition of indignities to which during their stay they had been continually subjected.

The day following Lieutenant Hesselburger and his party, with the two eldest girls, started for Fort Dodge, where they arrived the next day. The guide and the friendly Indians took a direct route from the camp of the Kiowas, reaching the Fort by a shorter and quicker route. A few days after the Indians brought the mother and youngest daughter, and a ransom in the shape of nine blankets and provisions being given, they were delivered up to the commandant of the post.

Altogether they were in captivity about ten weeks and in that time suffered all the cruelties that the fiend like malignity and heartlessness of their cowardly captors could invent. They are now at Fort Leavenworth, having left Fort Dodge in charge of Lieutenant Hesselburger on the 5th inst. His instructions are to report to General Hancock, now absent, who will make final disposition of the unfortunates. They will probably be sent to their homes in Texas.

THE ARCTIC REGION.

News from Mr. C. F. Hall.

Traces of Sir John Franklin's Expedition.

NEW YORK, November 19.—Mr. Henry Grinnell has received the following letter, giving news from Captain Hall's Acrtic expedition:

NEW LONDON, November 16, 1866.

To Henry Grinnell, New York:

DEAR SIR: The steam whaling bark Pioneer, Captain Ebenezer Morgan, from the Northern Sea, arrived at this port yesterday. As the vessel fell in with Mr. C. F. Hall, the Acrtic explorer, and yet brought no letters from him to his friends in the United States, I forward you Captain Morgan's statement of his interview and success with Mr. Hall in his researches among the natives of the northwest coast of Hudson's Bay. The Pioneer reached the head of Repulse Bay, north of the river Welcome, on the 16th of July last. Here they met Mr. Hall and his party of Esquimaux all in good health, at that time engaged in fishing. His faithful adherents, Joe and Hannah, Esquimaux, who are well known to you, with some other natives from his family or troupe, accompanied him. He had at that time no white men in his company.

Mr. Hall was much affected again to meet familiar faces, and hear news from home. He has passed the winter very comfortably, being thoroughly inured to the Esquimaux mode of life, and having with his resources secured ample supplies of food at the station. He had killed one whale last fall and another this summer, while deer were found in the greatest abundance. He had established a great many depots of provisions, extending far into the interior, to be used in case of necessity. Last spring Mr. Hall made a journey Northwest toward Committee Bay and King William's Land, but found the natives of that region so treacherous and jealous, that he was forced to return when within one hundred miles of his destination. This animosity and feud is between the different families and tribes of the Esquimaux, who all carry weapons secretly, and do not hesitate to kill each other for any real or supposed injury. Some of them threatened the life of Hall and his party, and they were obliged to return. Mr. Hall secured a great many relics of the Franklin exploring expedition, together with some important documents, which he believes to have been penned by Captain Crozier, and has information of the location of others, which he is determined to obtain, believing them to be of much value toward clearing up the mystery of the fate of the unfortunate survivors of the Erebus and Terror ...

LATE NEWS ITEMS.

By order of Mayor Hoffman, of New York, the railway track on Broadway, between Ann and Fulton streets, has been removed.

The report that General Grant objected to the reinstatement of General Sweeney, is absolutely false. On the contrary, General Grant desired General Sweeney to be promoted to a higher grade than the one he formerly held in the regular army.

The Caracas correspondent of the New York Herald says: Venezuela is in a most wretched state, and is actually without a government. When Mr. James Wilson, the American Minister, arrived, there was no one to present his credentials to President Falcon. He had never acted as President. He kept away from the capital, and the person representing him was also absent when Mr. Wilson arrived, but he managed to present his credentials on the 10th inst., to the President, who had arrived at the capital. Considerable discussion is going on here just now as to the best means of improving the financial condition of the State. In the meantime business is in a very bad way. We hear of some large failures by which Puerto Sabello suffers heavily. Coffee and cotton are at the bottom of the failures.

A Washington special says: Congressmen are beginning to arrive in considerable numbers, and are giving their attention to the selection of quarters for the winter. The expenses of living at the Capital are so exorbitant that many of them have determined to take lodgings in Baltimore.

POLITICAL.

The Philadelphia Press says: A number of soldiers maimed for life in fighting for the Union were removed during the past week by William F. Johnston, collector of the port, from positions held by them in the custom house. The vacancies thus made were filled by the appointment of men who have ever opposed the principles of the Union Republican party. Among the newly appointed are Samuel Carson, John Agan, Folyard Degan, John McKeown, Patrick McDonough and John Gallagher.

At a late meeting of the National Union Club, Philadelphia, the following named members were unanimously expelled: Messrs. John H. Diehl, S. M. Zulick, Wm. A. Gray, S. Snyder Leidy, John Welsh. The club says the Press, is very strong in numbers, spirited and high toned. The individuals expelled were the only ones in the club who accepted position in the Bread-and-Butter Brigade.

Says the Cincinnati Commercial: "If being in Congress will make John Morrissey a better or more useful man, which we doubt, because it is not a school in which the virtues and moralities of life are largely cultivated, we are in favor of his admission.

General Conference of the M. P. Church.

Fifth Day's Proceedings.

The Conference assembled yesterday morning at the usual hour, and the opening services were conducted by Rev. V. B. Evans.

The report of the Committee on Ministerial Education, presented on Saturday, was taken up. The report embraced, in addition to a Constitution and By-Laws for the government of the Board of Education, the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the thanks of this General Conference be tendered to the officers and members of the Board of Education for their untiring zeal and Christian devotion in laboring to prepare an efficient and thoroughly educated ministry in the Methodist Protestant Church.

Resolved, That we hereby accept the gift tendered us, of all the interests of said Central Board of Education.

Resolved, That the Board of Education, the control of which is assumed by this Conference, shall be located at Springfield, Ohio.

The report was accepted, and adopted.

On motion, a committee, consisting of Revs. J. M Flood, D. D., John Cowl, D. D., and J. H. Hamilton, was appointed to nominate officers of the Board of Education.

The report of the Committee on Union was taken up, and on motion referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

On motion the committee to nominate officers of the Board of Education was enlarged by the appointment of Messrs William Gunckle and William Miller, laymen, as members thereof.

On motion the report of the committee on the subject of the action of the Pittsburgh Conference respecting the Sixth Street Station, Cincinnati, was taken from the table and adopted unanimously.

Rev. T. Finkbine presented a paper from the Northern Illinois Annual Conference, advising the opening of a correspondence with the Primitive Methodists of England.

A motion was made and adopted, for the appointment of a Special Committee of three to carry into effect the suggestion contained in the paper read, and Rev. Drs. Reeves and Cowl, and Rev. T. Finkbine were appointed by vote of Conference.

Rev. J. S. Thrapp, from the Committee on Missions, submitted a report, which was laid over.

Dr. Brown and Rev. T. B. Graham, requested Conference to return to them the documents which they placed in the possession of Conference in the case of the Sixth street church, Cincinnati.

Before adjourning it was unanimously agreed that the subject of Church Union should be the order of business this morning. Considerable interest is manifested in this matter by the members of the non-Episcopal branch of the Methodist Church, and the number of spectators to-day will doubtless be considerably increased.

THE PRESTLEY CASE.

Statement of the Monongahela Presbytery—The Investigation Requested by the Rev. Dr. Prestley—The Charges upon which the Defendant was Declared Guilty—The Rev. Dr. Prestley's Succesor—Etc.

The interest manifested by the public in the case of the Rev. Dr. James Prestley, late pastor of the United Presbyterian Church, on Sixth street, Pittsburgh, has scarcely abated, and Rumor, with her thousand tongues, continues to circulate many and various ill-founded reports concerning the affair, although the whole matter has been thoroughly examined into by the church to which the defendant was amenable, and its sentence passed upon him for the wrongs he committed. The committee appointed by the Monongahela Presbytery to make a statement of this case, prepared the following, which has been handed to us for publication:

The committee appointed by the Monongahela Presbytery to make a statement of the case of the Rev. Dr. James Prestley, lately tried in said Presbytery, would present the following:

At a meeting of the Presbytery held at Union, September 18th, 1866, Rev. Dr. Prestley stated that certain rumors touching his character as a Christian and a minister were in circulation in the community, and asked Presbytery to investigate said rumors.

In compliance with his request, a committee was appointed, which, at a meeting of the Presbytery held in Lawrenceville, October 2d, reported that the rumors were of such a character that they should receive a thorough and impartial examination.

In accordance with the report of this committee, a committee was raised to prepare a libel against the Rev. Dr. Prestley. At a meeting of the Presbytery, held in the First Church, Pittsburgh, October 10th, said committee reported a libel.

The investigation of the libel began at a meeting of the Presbytery, held in the Fifth Church, Pittsburgh, October 29th. The Presbytery continued in session eleven days, and the charges contained in the libel were patiently investigated. About thirty-two witnesses were examined.

The libel contained three charges. The first was, "unkind, cruel and violent treatment of his family." The second was; the use "of vulgar and profane language." The third was, "unfaithfulness to his marriage vow."

The first and third of these charges were unanimously sustained. The second charge was sustained, but not unanimously, so far as "profane language" is concerned. Under these charges were fourteen specifications, which were all sustained—nine of them unanimously.

The Presbytery, however, were careful to say "that by the language of the third charge, they will not find the Rev. Dr. Prestley guilty of adultery, or even charge him with that sin."

The charges and specifications against the Rev. Dr. Prestley being found proved, the Presbytery indefinitely suspended him from the exercise of the ministry and from membership in the church.

When the sentence was pronounced neither the Moderator nor the members of the Presbytery could restrain their feelings. Every minister and elder seemed to feel his responsibility, ...

... by officer Hess, of the Allegheny police, on a charge of committing a felonious assault and battery upon the person of Adam Newman, on Saturday night, had a hearing yesterday, and was committed for a further examination. The affray occurred at the junction of the Perrysville and Saw Mill Run Plank Roads, in Ross township, a short distance from Mr. Born's house. When Mr. Born heard that Newman had been stabbed he had him carried into his house, and afterwards conveyed him to Allegheny, where his wounds were dressed by Drs. Perchment and Kirker. His hand was nearly severed, and he had also been severely cut in the back of the neck. His injuries are not supposed to be serious.

For sacred music and family use no instrument can compare with the Mason & Hamlin Cabinet Organ. Read the following:

The Cabinet Organ we got from you gives us all the satisfaction that any instrument of the kind could do. Its power and richness of tone cannot be surpassed, in our opinion, by anything yet invented. For sacred music and family use nothing can be better. Its use in a family, in a moral point of view, is such that it will be found to be a profitable investment for that, if no other reason.

Rev. P. M. McGowan, East Liberty, Pa.

Mellor & Co., 81 Wood street, are the sole agents in this city for the Cabinet Organs.

Of the Wheeler & Wilson machine we can speak with entire clearness and confidence, after the use of one four years or more in our family. We look upon it as one of the benefactions of the age, and one which will constitute an era in the history of woman.—Mrs. E. Oakes Smith. †

THE NORTH AND THE SOUTH.

We regret to notice the continuance, even at this late day, of a phraseology which implies that the great political controversy of the country lies between the Northern and the Southern sections of the country. During the war, this idea was steadily and consistently avoided in all actions of the Government. The contest lay between the United States Government and the insurgents in arms against it. And the yet unsettled difficulties are between the same parties. In the former phase of the case, while the insurrection was employing all the martial force that it could command, the loyal citizens of all sections did their duty to the extent of their ability, for the support and maintenance of the Government, meeting, repelling and finally vanquishing force with force, and arms by arms. It was not a battle between the North and the South, but a battle between the Government and the insurgents. And now, in the political phase of the case, the parties are the same—the Government and the late insurgents.

There is not now, as there was not then, any direct issue in form, between the two sections of the country. There is difference of opinion, there is an array of individual passion, there is antagonism of political position, but there is no direct or formal action of the North as such against the South. There is, in fact, no such organization as "the North." The action of the Northern people has been, from the beginning, through the channel of the Government and according to their duty under the Constitution, supporting both against the insurrectionary movements emanating from the South, as they would have done had like movements emanated from any other quarter. But direct conflicts with the South or the Southern people, they have had, and now have none. It would seem that a moderate capability for discrimination might secure every one from making the absurd and injurious use of the terms to which we refer.

But it cannot be always attributed to mistake or lack of judgment. It has been used not without effect, by a class of writers, North and South, who wish to reduce vital questions of Government to the diminutive position of mere party and sectional debates. This has been the persistent course of the advocates of the insurrection that has so afflicted our country. If the implication were admitted, the odium of insurrection against good Government would be evaded, and that of civil war would be at least shared by the antagonist section.

One objection to the use of these sectional terms in this way is not merely that it presents an unjust and incorrect notion of the existing political questions which have agitated the country; but also that it tends to perpetuate in the Southern people that sectionalism which has been the prolific source of mischief, to them much more than to us. We have no such thing as "the North," except as it is marked off on the map by a geographical line. We cannot conceive of it in any other character, as an individuality. But "the South" has been long presented to notice and consideration, as an embodiment, as an entity, having interests, aspirations, institutions, unity, as a personality almost, with all the accompaniments of sensibility, passion and power. This has been the occasion of its most fatal mistakes. This has exposed it to ridicule. This led it into insurrection, its idea of individuality having got quite ahead of its idea of association in the Federal arrangement. And this notion of sectionalism still pervades not only its style of speech, but also its entire habit of thinking and plan of operation. Even the individuality of States is ignored, notwithstanding their wild notions of State sovereignty, when this ideal entity, the South, is the subject of speech.

THE CARTE BLANCHE.

Quite a sensation was produced, on Saturday, even in Wall street, by an article bearing the signature of WENDELL PHILLIPS, and setting forth very odd and very absurd ideas of the political situation. It especially intimates that the late elections have given a carte blanche, i. e. an unrestricted liberty, to Congress, to do all manner of things that may be suggested by such radicalism as that of Mr. PHILLIPS. Avast, there! The elections bear no such significancy.

The voice of the people, as embodied and uttered in the vote of the Republican Union party, indorses what Congress has done, and so far, intimates the popular will that Congress shall continue its measures in the same line of policy. But it neither encourages nor admits the adoption of any extravagant and revolutionary measures. The article referred to proposes that Congress shall "throw all this chaff about reconstruction out of one window and the Constitutional Amendment out of the other, &c." Nothing could be more wild or absurd than such an idea. It was on this issue that the election turned, and that it gave the triumph to the Republican party. Adherence to the Congressional policy, as embodied in its action on these very articles, was the test of true Republicanism, during the canvass, as opposed to the Democrats and their policy. That the decision of the popular vote, expressly made on this ground, should suggest to Congress the immediate abandonment of this ground, is an idea which could hardly have gained access to any sane mind.

That the Democrats, disheartened and forlorn under their defeat, should be solicitous to get rid of the platform that caused that defeat, is perfectly natural and sensible. Dying for what the Chicago Times calls the "re-ascendancy of the Democratic party," they may throw overboard their hitherto distinctive principles and pitch after them, if they choose, their late distinguished auxiliaries, but the Republican party can be guilty of no such tergiversation, especially when it must be accomplished only by the most unheard of stupidity. The policy of this party is indicated by the late elections. But the intelligence with which the indication has been given, and the manifest energy of purpose that indorses it, must utterly preclude the idea of abandoning either the effort to reconstruct the States lately in insurrection, or such amendment to the Constitution as will adapt it to the present situation of the country.

A carte blanche has not been given to Congress. The great offense of the President, in the estimation of the people, was that he took the liberty implied in such a permit, and did as he pleased in the matter of reconstruction. Congress more wisely interpreted the wishes of the nation, in the choice of its measures. The people have approved them. And there is no reason to believe or to fear that Congress will henceforward ignore the mind of the people, to follow the extravagant notions of Mr. PHILLIPS.

BETWEEN SEVERAL STOOLS.

Judge MCGRATH, of South Carolina, was a rabid secessionist, and incurred the indignant denunciation of all loyal, patriotic men. When, at the close of the war, he obtained release from imprisonment,—by assuring President JOHNSON that he had withdrawn from active participation in the rebellion two years before its collapse, and that he had long been a bitter opponent of JEFFERSON DAVIS—he brought upon himself the contempt and enmity of his former fellow traitors. Now, when he advocates the adoption of the Constitutional Amendment, he is abused more heartily than ever, and all the evil, men have said of him, and all the inconsistencies of his past political life are being assiduously raked up and thrown in his teeth. Verily, South as well as North, the public, or would-be public individuals, who have tried to balance themselves on several stools at once, come, one after the other, most ignominiously to the ground.

RELICS OF BARBARISM.—The practice of skinning a man's back for the theft of a few dollars worth of property is a relic of barbarism which has been abolished in all communities where civilization has had a chance to develope. It appears, though, that modern ideas of what is decorous and wise do not flourish in the social soil and climate of the sunny South. They have cherished down there a delightful species of conservatism; which was, in fact, nothing but a crazy mania for leaving stagnation alone, until general decay ensued and spread a moral miasma among the people. We stirred things up for them in rather a lively way for about four years; but the roots of the rotten weeds are yet fostering in the slime of prejudice, which we had not time to drain away. They evidently cannot give up the ecstatic use of their favorite instrument of punishment—the lash. On Thursday last five white men and one negro were flogged at Richmond, Virginia, by order of the Hustings Court on conviction of petty larceny. This is the first instance there in many years of the infliction of stripes on white men by judicial sentence. We might have more hope for the regeneration and progress of the Old Dominion, if we could also say it was the last—whether in the case of white or black.

THE ATTITUDE OF ARKANSAS.

The Legislature of Arkansas is now in session, and has already commenced to take action on important points connected with both the regulation of domestic matters and the relations of the State to the Union. On Wednesday last Governor MURPHY's message was sent to both Houses, and, on the whole, met with a favorable reception. It is moderate in tone, deprecating political excitement, and favoring immigration and greater facilities for educating the masses. Obedience to the provisions of the Civil Rights Bill is recommended, and the wisdom of adopting the Constitutional Amendment virtually maintained. There is a strong party in the Legislature, however, hostile to the Amendment. Already a Mr. NEWTON has offered a resolution binding the "General Assembly" not to act on the matter at all "until Arkansas be allowed her representation upon the floors of Congress, and be there permitted to vote upon this and other propositions to amend or change the National Constitution." But there seems a probability that, in spite of such reconstructed Bourbons as this NEWTON, Arkansas will ratify.

HERCULES AT WORK.

The Chicago Times, laboring with a new-born zeal to imbue the Democratic party with abolitionist ideas, to cleanse it of its hereditary horror of the "nigger," and to elevate it to the sticking point of "accepting" negro suffrage, has presented, for a week past, one of the most conspicuous objects of public contemplation. By nothing short of classical illustrations, can its peculiar occupation be adequately exhibited. Of the twelve labors of HERCULES, that of the Times assimilates most closely to the fifth—a dirty job—the cleansing of the Augean stables, in which three thousand oxen had been stalled about as long, say thirty years, as the Democratic party has been infested by its peculiar notions on the negro question. It will merit an apotheosis, beside HERCULES, if it shall be as successful in removing the fetid accumulation. It promises well, having taken an idea from the renowned ancient, and turned a roaring current through the mass—"a wishy-washy, everlasting flood" of editorial talk.

The Times' logic, however, is not quite equal to its courage in the undertaking. It proposes the adoption of the principle of negro suffrage as "the shortest road to the re-ascendency of the Democratic party," and adds that "The question of negro suffrage is already determined,—not, to be sure, by a direct vote of the country on the question, but by the events which are as certain and conclusive as such a vote would be; and he who does not comprehend the fact—he who does not see in the signs of the times the inevitability of that result—is lamentably and inexcusably blind. We have no doubt that if the question were submitted directly to the voters of Illinois to-morrow, IMPARTIAL SUFFRAGE would prevail by a very large majority, and that thousands of Democrats would contribute to that conclusion. And as in Illinois, so in every other Northwestern State. We do not ask our Democratic contemporaries to make themselves happy over this fact,—the fact of the inevitability of negro suffrage,—but we do ask them, however distasteful the fact itself, not to ignore it."

All true, as to the facts, but how this is to help the Democratic party to "re-ascendency" is not quite plain. They were too late in discovering the "inevitability," to be in at the death, and, having up to the latest moment gone off on an opposite scent, can have no share in the game. But it adds, with one eye thievishly on the negro suffrage question and the other imploringly turned toward its Democratic brethren, "should not the Democratic party, ceasing unavailing opposition to it, take the application and control of the new suffrage from the radicals, and itself apply and control it, and make it subserve the best possible uses?" The best possible use contemplated is, the giving "re-ascendency to the Democratic party." But the grand difficulty is, the taking of the control from the radicals.

We apprehend that the modern HERCULES has overcalculated his powers in this case, both with regard to the magnitude of the undertaking and with regard to the rewards that will crown his efforts. Should he succeed in abolitionising and radicalising the Democracy, which is not probable, he and it will find the prestige of justice to the negro race already in the hands of those who have seized it, not, as the Times proposes, for mere narrow party ends, but from high patriotic and humane motives.

The Times is evidently bent on doing a thing to be wondered at. The World had the distinguished honor of precedency in the flattering and cajoling campaign that resulted in the capture of President JOHNSON. The Times has taken time by the forelock, in an enterprise equally astounding and likely to be equally auspicious to the party. The antecedents of the Times on political questions, the rebellion, the war, the re-construction, and even the negroes, are not calculated to give flattering prospects of success. Its repeated experiences of mortifying defeat may have inured it to the less welcome emotions incident to ignominious failure.

MINERAL RESOURCES OF GEORGIA.

A writer in the Atlanta, Georgia, Intelligencer, urging a geographical survey of the State, says:

"There are three things which it is wisdom in us, in our crippled condition, not to overlook or to neglect, viz:

"1st. That we have extensive and valuable mines in gold, silver, copper, iron, &c.

"2d. That we do not possess the capital for a satisfactory development of them.

"3d. That we must, therefore, attract so much attention from the North as may be adequate to bring out these resources."

Past history shows that the mineral resources of Georgia are rich in varied treasures. The development of them, by the judicious employment of capital and enterprise, will not be long delayed, if facilities be afforded and co-operation be given by the people on the ground. The tone of the press and of the popular sentiment, which has been since the war far from attractive either to capital or labor, we are glad to see, is undergoing a change for the better. The above extract, in its three specifications, states facts worthy of consideration.

A POET'S MISTAKE.—It is remarkable how fine a sentimentalist a man may be, and yet have little sense of genuine justice and philanthropy. ALFRED TENNYSON, for example, who has written such eloquent poetry in praise of the noble, the great and the good in philosophy and morals, looks upon the massacre of thousands of unfortunate negroes in Jamaica as a perfectly legitimate and commendable act; while the trial of the miscreant, by whose authority those atrocities were perpetrated, excites his pity and opens his purse. The London Review says the Laureate has joined the champions of ex-Governor EYRE and has sent a subscription to the fund for his defense. The fact is, like nearly all Englishmen who have risen from obscurity to fame and position, TENNYSON is a toady and a snob. He finds it is the fashion in "society" to look upon EYRE as a Christian martyr; and as he avowedly writes for "society," he bids for favor with the "upper ten," by the sacrifice of his reputation for humanity to the dictates of policy.

EXHUMING A VAMPIRE.—R. B. RHETT, Jr., of Charleston, South Carolina, announces that he is going to revive the Mercury—a notorious newspaper, for years identified with the pestilent origin and growth of secession and rebellion. This vampire of the press,—which battened so long upon the life-blood of the nation, till all combined to shake it off with loathing and disgust,—should be allowed to rot in the oblivion the issue of the war consigned it to. Its very title is a stench in the public nostrils; its prospective editor inherits a name, compared to which that of BENEDICT ARNOLD is worthy of esteem and honor; and its influence, we cannot doubt, will be used to nurse into life again those poisonous seeds of discord that so much blood and treasure were spent in the effort to eradicate.

A COMPETENT WITNESS.—Ex-Governor SMITH—better known as "EXTRA BILLY"—of Virginia, has been summoned to Danville, Virginia, to testify in a suit brought against the town for the value of certain liquors destroyed by order of the Mayor, to keep it from falling into the hands of straggling soldiers at the time of LEE's surrender. The competency of the witness will not be denied by any one acquainted with his personal habits; and the known estimation in which he holds all manner of convivial and exhilerating fluids will insure a tone favorable to the plaintiff, in all the testimony he may be called upon to give.

COMING TO WISDOM.

Some of our Southern people are verging towards the line of wisdom in their views of interest and duty. They have allowed themselves too long to be diverted from the right way by politicians, whose only or chief aim was their own political advancement. In several of the respectable journals of the Southern States, we notice earnest calls to the people, to turn their attention to industrial pursuits, to labor, to repair the damages done by the war, to improve the roads, to provide for the education of the young. The recommendation is accompanied by a monitory suggestion that they eschew politics, which is, perhaps, until their politics come to embrace more practical questions, one of the best presented.

THE PROPHET ZADKIEL.

A quack pill manufacturer, who does business on a gigantic scale in England, yearly publishes an almanac, the chief features of which is the mysterious outgivings of a certain "Prophet Zadkiel." His theory is, that astrologic influences govern all human actions and events. It is interesting to know what an extraordinary effect the moon has upon the most ordinary and every day proceedings. In obedience to the varied and extensive powers which it possesses, we are advised to be governed by the following suggestions:

"On the 2d, 7th, 12th, 16th, 25th and 30th days, trade, deal with merchants, bankers or clergymen; begin new undertakings. On the 2d, 7th, 12th, 21st, 26th, 31st, woo, marry, engage female servants, visit or invite friends. On the 1st, 10th, 15th, 23d, 27th, deal with surgeons, military men, cutlers, &c. On the 10th, 15th, 29th, P. M., ask favors, seek employment. On the 3d, 9th, 14th, 23d, 29th, travel, write, deal with lawyers, booksellers; send children to school, or apprentice youths, &c. On the 6th, 19th, 23d, deal with farmers and old folks."

This sort of stuff is implicitly believed in by numbers of people; even those who ought to know better allowing their superstitions to carry away their judgment, when, by some coincidence Zadkiel chances to predict an event that really happens. One hundred thousand copies of the Almanac are said to be annually sold; and, in reading it, at least half a million of people are sold too.

Naval Full Dress.

The new naval regulations about uniforms will not be so oppressive on officers as was generally feared. A return to swallow tailed coats and chapeauxbras is optional. The most important changes authorized are these: The body coat and cocked hat are restored for foreign service, but it is not obligatory upon officers in the United States to procure or use either of them. All regular officers are required to procure epaulets, and their use upon the ordinary frock coat, with sword and knot, constitutes the full dress uniform for general duty and official visits. Volunteer officers, whether on home or foreign service, are not required to procure either the body coat, cocked hat or epaulets. Officers in their social intercourse in the United States, upon occasions requiring them to appear in evening dress, are authorized to wear a body coat, made according to the prevailing fashion, of Navy blue cloth, with five Navy buttons on each breast, and with the device of rank and grade on the end of the collar.

Business Prospects.

The Tribune of Saturday says: The sky grows so squally that business is threatened with stagnation. Manufacturers are stopping their works because they can no longer place their goods; merchants are selling little in the present, and wish they had sold less in the past. The South has been glutted with costly fabrics which she does not need and cannot pay for; and protests on mercantile paper are uncomfortably plentiful. The eight Wall street firms which regulate the price of gold, making it cheap when they have it to lend and dear when they choose to call it in, are at their wits end to keep up the premium, and would be utterly swamped if Secretary McCulloch would only buy up and extinguish some kind of Public Debt with his surplus gold. The Corn crop being large, the West is full of Hogs, and the great operators who manage the Pork market dare not buy and pack at the prices of last year, and are compelled to let the market settle, to their own heavy loss. Nobody wants to hold Butter and Cheese at current rates; Beef and Mutton, though still high, are falling, for Poultry is so cheap and abundant that the poor can't afford to eat Beef. Our market is glutted with produce and fabrics; and all know that, unless there shall be a fresh debauch of Paper Money, prices of nearly everything must be lower.

Change of Base.

A Washington correspondent writes as follows:

It is also apparent here that the Democrats who enlisted under the "policy" banner, and who have taken command of the "bread and butter brigade," are much demoralized. They went in to win, but they have lost. Now sauve qui peut is the word, and those who can extricate themselves from the Waterloo retreat are "hedging" on the question of negro suffrage. It will not surprise me to see the Democrats advocating equal suffrage before the next Presidential election, and it is declared by those who know both that Fernando Wood will dispute the championship of the Fortieth Congress with Ben. Butler.

Meanwhile the Southerners here, who have been led to regard Mr. Johnson as their "Moses," have very little to say. They see that they cannot at once assume the arrogant position which they occupied ante bellum, and so they are quietly obtaining pardons and getting such places as they can fill. Their confidence in the Democrats, especially those who control New York city, is gone, and they begin to awake to a just sense of their real situation.

Population of Mississippi.

In Mississippi a census has been taken. In forty-four counties seventeen have increased their white population 10,906, and twenty-seven counties decreased 17,705. Net decrease in forty-five counties, 6,799. In thirteen counties there has been an increase of 7,709 blacks, and in thirty-one counties a decrease of 53,374 blacks. Net decrease of forty-four counties 45,575. The percentage of white decrease is two and a half per cent; that of the blacks thirteen per cent. Sixteen counties, from which we have no returns, had, in 1860, a white population of 71,702, and a black population of 86,532. If the decrease of population should be similar in the other counties, the number of negroes in the State would be reduced in round numbers, from 437,000, in 1860, to 380,000; and the white population from 353,000 to 345,000, making a total estimated decrease of population in the State during the last six years of about 8,000 whites and 57,000 blacks.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.—A Convention of young men was held in Philadelphia Thursday and Friday for the purpose of taking into consideration the reinvigoration of the Young Men's Christian Association. Delegates were in attendance from Pittsburgh, Washington, Baltimore, Wheeling, Troy, Albany and Chicago. Among others, Rev. Herrick Johnson, of Pittsburgh, addressed the Convention. He said: "I think the first thing that ought to be done is to put the young men in the work. Urging is not sufficient. They must be placed in positions of responsibility, where they must either work or shirk it. Another thing that we ought to be careful about, is to give them work for which they were adapted, so as they can feel they are equal to it. We must fix in the minds of the young men that they must do certain work as young men, and feeling that responsibility, they will be more apt to do it, and do it successfully."

Resolutions were adopted earnestly requesting the christian young men throughout the land to organize Christian Associations in the villages, towns and cities where they do not now exist.

CONGRESSMAN "AT LARGE."—The New York Tribune explains the peculiar circumstances which led to the running of a Congressman "at large" at the late election in Illinois. It says: "The law of the 23d of May, 1850, fixes the number of Members of Congress at 233, who are redistributed among the States after and in accordance with every decennial census. An act of March 4, 1862, increased, however, the number of Representatives from 233 to 241, by allowing one additional Representative to eight States, of which Illinois was one. The number of Congressmen of Illinois was thus raised from thirteen to fourteen. The State Legislature of Illinois, instead of dividing the State into fourteen districts, preferred to elect only thirteen Members of Congress, in separate districts, and to have the fourteenth elected by the vote of the whole State. This is the Congressman at large, for which office General Logan has just received a majority approaching 60,000. Illinois is the only State in the Union which has a Congressman 'at large'—not counting the States which elect only one Congressman."

TAXATION OF SHOEMAKERS.—By the recent Internal Revenue Law, boot and shoemakers engaged upon custom work only, are exempted from taxation, if their work, exclusive of materials, does not exceed in value $1,000 annually. Upon this subject the Commissioner of Internal Revenue has decided that returns must be made of the first cost of the materials used, and also of the value of the sales of boots and shoes, and if the difference amounts to more than $1,000 annually, the shoemaker is to be taxed the same as any manufacturer. The Assessor can demand these returns monthly, but he is to make no assessment until the amount reaches $1,000 annually, when he can assess the back returns and collect the tax upon the aggregate.

APPLES AND POTATOES AFLOAT.—The Rochester Express of Tuesday, says: "The apple crop of Western New York is very late in getting to market this Fall. Immense quantities of apples are still afloat upon canals, and can hardly reach the Hudson before the last days of the month, and they may be nipped by Jack Frost before they get to their destination. On Sunday afternoon there was no less than 23,000 bushels of apples afloat at and near Middleport, Niagara county. There were also, large quantities of potatoes afloat. Buyers estimate that there are fully 160,000 barrels of apples and potatoes on the canal west of the Palmyra breach.

THE PRESIDENTIAL QUESTION.—In reference to the question of a successor to President Johnson, if he should be impeached, the Illinois Staats Zeitung advances the opinion, without positively affirming it, that the Constitution confers no power on Congress to order a Presidential election. In other words, it holds that the act of March 1, 1792, providing for such election in the case of a vacancy in the offices of President and Vice President, is unconstitutional. Adopting this view of the case, the conclusion is that the President pro tempore of the Senate would fill out the unexpired term, that is, until the 4th of March, 1869.

EDWARD KETCHUM.—The New York Commercial refers to the statement which appeared in an Albany paper to the effect that Ketchum, the forger was in Europe, and says: We are assured that there is no truth in this statement; that since he went to prison, Mr. Ketchum's deportment has been such as to commend itself to the officers, who soon tendered to him all the liberties and privileges allowed by the rules at Sing Sing, which privileges he has never availed himself of, and that having been selected by one of the contractors to keep his books, he has since attended to those duties.

NOT VERY COMPLIMENTARY.—The Fremont, Ohio, correspondent of the Cleveland Herald, in referring to the neighboring town of Findlay, says: "It was in the town of Findlay that 'Rev. Petroleum V. Nasby,' Minister of the Church of the New Dispensation, commenced his labors, and there first issued his pastoral letters. There are also other Gas Institutions in the town, and on invitation of the Mayor, I visited one of his 'stabes on Main street, a few rods west of the 'Crook House.'"

PERSONAL.

—American painters illustrating American poets is good news. Hennessey did this, finely, for Whittier's "Maud Muller," and Darley did equal justice to Longfellow's "Evangeline." Now S. Eytinge, Jr., has supplied ten drawings for a new edition of "The Vision of Sir Launfal," by J. R. Lowell.

—Peter Joseph Ferlein, of St. Louis, publishes the following notice: "If my wife Isabella Ferlein, alias Belle Moore, who left my bed and board now the third time, without cause or provocation, will return to me in two weeks from date, the past will be forgiven her; if not, she need not consider me any longer her husband."

—Mr. Ralph Waldo Emerson, whose rugged philosophy has of late only found expression in prose, has "dropped into poetry" again, and has a contribution in verse in the December number of the Atlantic.

—Stodare, who for the past two years has performed as a conjurer at the Egyptian Hall, London, died suddenly on the 23d, from the rupture of a blood vessel. It was he who first introduced the "Mystery of the Sphynx" and several other clever deceptions.

—Prince Napoleon is in London, and has paid a visit to Captain Hudson, of the lilliputian ship Red, White and Blue.

—John P. Mayberry, Esq., one of the oldest and most respected citizens of Parkersburg, West Virginia, died suddenly on Thursday while sitting in his carriage witnessing a race in which a favorite horse of his was running. Deceased was seventy-seven years of age. He was, we believe, an Eastern Virginian by birth. He early came West with his parents and settled near Marietta. He was successful as a lawyer and business man, and secured a large fortune. In the latter portion of his life, he devoted himself to the raising of blooded horses, and to the quiet improvement of the farms he owned in the State.

—Mr. Balling's large picture of Grant and the Union Generals, on exhibition at the International Gallery, New York is said to be an interesting and, in considerable measure, a successful attempt to group characteristic likenesses of the principal commanders of our armies. It is a canvas about twenty by fourteen feet, and the composition presents a group of horsemen, riding at a canter, as it were, down forward out of the picture across toward the left hand of the spectator—a bold and striking idea. The riders are in uniform, and the figures and faces are nearly of life size.

—The London Weekly Times, of November 4th, says:—One day during the late visit of the Prince of Wales to Edinburgh, his Royal Highness, having occasion to visit one or two shops in town, took a cab from the common stand, hoping thereby to elude the notice of the unmannerly crowds who invariably dodge the footsteps of royalty in that city. He did not make much, however, by this manœuvre; for, on alighting from the vehicle, two well-dressed ladies stepped up to the cabman, and in winning accents demanded, "How long will you let us sit in your cab for a shilling?" The modest darlings doubtless fancied that it would be something grand to say that they had sat in a carriage used by his Royal Highness.

—Seth Kinman has been appointed an Indian Agent for Idaho. Seth is a famous California bear hunter, and has presented several of our Presidents with chairs made from the skins and horns of wild animals slain in his hunts. Seth made himself a fixture at the Capital at Washington for the whole of the last session of Congress, wearing the hunter's garb of buckskin and bear skins everywhere, selling pictures of himself to visitors, and spinning backwoods yarns in the drinking saloons. His appointment was probably bestowed as a means of getting rid of him.

—Dr. Cumming, the Scotch preacher, who is constantly getting up some new pulpit sensation, is as irrepressible as the African. Last winter he published the last dying speech and confession of a modern prophet, under the title of "The Last Warning Cry." This "last cry," it would seem, has not been effective, so we are to have "more last words." The reverend doctor announces a new book as on the eve of publication, "The Sounding of the Last Trumpet; or, the Last Woe." This same Cumming, in 1853, signed a lease for twenty-one years of the ground on which his chapel is built, though two or three Sundays before, he had proved from Revelations that the end of the world would come in 1860.

—The question whether James Stephens has left the country is discussed in the Fenian circles. All day long a man looking like him sits in his office in New York, but only the initiated can speak to him, though visitors may look at him, and it is believed this is only an imitation of Stephens, got up to "fool" the English spies.

—A difficulty occurred Monday last near Marion, Ark., in which a man named Lusby had his throat cut by a knife in the hands of Doctor Peters. The difficulty grew out of a misunderstanding which has existed for years. Doctor Peters is the same who shot and killed Gen. Van Dorn during the war.

—James P. Hambleton, one of the two Congressional candidates in the Seventh (Atlanta) District, Georgia, was arrested, tried and condemned to be shot as a rebel spy, by Gen. Rosecrans, in 1863. A retaliatory order from Bragg, however, saved his neck, and after eighteen months' imprisonment he was released. He has now been pardoned by the President.

—Miss Madelaine Henriquez, of Wallack's Theater, of New York, is—so report says—to be soon married to Mr. Jennings, the correspondent of the London Times. Madelaine is the prettiest actress on the stage.

—The New Orleans Times has seen his Grace Duke Gwin. It says: "We are pleased to see in our city, in remarkably hale and vigorous condition, that distinguished son and citizen of the South, Dr. Gwin, formerly Senator from California, and more recently connected with the enterprise of establishing an American colony in Sonora, Mexico. He returns now to his native South to re-embark his fortunes and fate in the same boat with the Southern people."

—N. P. Willis, it is said, is now passing away. He has not appeared at any of the places he is accustomed to frequent in New York for some weeks, but has been confined to his residence on the Hudson, by his feeble health. With the exception, perhaps, of Mr. Simms, of South Carolina, he is the last representative of the second generation of American authors. Mr. Willis must be nearly seventy years of age.

—"Baby" Bates, the Kentucky giant, who is twenty years old, seven feet eleven and a half inches high, weighs four hundred and sixty-two pounds, and is the youngest of eleven children, is now traveling down the Mississippi.

—A Boston correspondent writes: Moses A. Dow, a dozen years ago a compositor in the Traveller office, working for thirteen dollars a week, is now worth half a million dollars. He has made this snug competence by publishing the trashiest paper on the continent, the Waverley Magazine.

The Late Accident on the Buffalo and Erie Railroad.

The late disastrous accident on the Buffalo and Erie Railroad, near Erie, by which four persons were killed, was caused by the negligence of James Mahoney, the trackmaster, in not having a signal flag to warn approaching trains of danger. He had removed some rails near a culvert for the purpose of putting down new rails, and the train came thundering along at the rate of forty miles per hour without a warning until too close upon the spot to avoid the catastrophe. Mahoney has been arrested and held in $2,000 bail to answer at Court. The Erie Dispatch says: "We understand the Buffalo and Erie Railroad have settled the claims of those injured by the late accident for the sum of $23,000. The friends of the deceased accept $5,000 each, while the remaining $3,000 is distributed among the wounded."

The escape of Barton Burr, conductor, from instant death is miraculous. The Dispatch says: "He was standing near a culvert, that is planked over lengthwise of the track for a footpath, and had his back to the approaching engine. The engine was running backwards and Burr was struck down by the tender, the engine and tender passing over him. Unexpected as the blow was, the moment he was struck, with the instinct of self-preservation and that wonderful presence of mind that becomes a sort of second nature to those who are daily employed in running trains, he immediately laid as flat as possible, the tender passing over him without injuring him, but the bottom of the cow-catcher sweeps so close down to the track that it forced him through one of the planks of the bridge. The plank is of hemlock, about eighteen inches wide and one and a half inches in thickness, and by the way it splintered, it shows that there must have been a tremendous pressure applied to it. Had the plank been but very little stronger he would inevitably have been crushed to death."

The Cleveland Postmaster.

General George W. Morgan, Democratic member of Congress from the Thirteenth Ohio District, his brother, William Morgan, and Judge Van Trump, Democratic member of Congress from the Twelfth District, arrived in Washington on Wednesday, to secure the removal of Mr. Benedict, editor of the Cleveland Herald, from the office of Postmaster at that place, and the appointment of Mr. Armstrong, editor of the Plaindealer. They saw the President, but did not get any encouragement. They then saw the Postmaster General, and quite a plain talk ensued, ending in a peremptory refusal to make the appointment, and a very plain intimation that the Democratic support of the President's policy had been only sufficient to injure instead of aiding it.

THE ARLINGTON HOUSE.—When General McDowell established his headquarters at the ancestral home of Mrs. General Lee, he had the numerous Washington relics which it contained carefully guarded, and General Whipple, who succeeded him, had them removed into the attic and locked up. But when a lady friend of the family went there last week, accompanied by a medical gentleman of this city, with an order from the War Department authorizing her to take possession of Mrs. Lee's personal property, she found nothing but a few torn manuscripts and some broken furniture. Curiosity hunters and autograph collectors had "cleaned out" the premises, and the treasures so carefully guarded by old G. W. P. Custis have been dispersed over the continent.

THE DECAY OF THE TURKISH GOVERNMENT.—A correspondent of the New York Evening Post writes from Constantinople, that the Candian insurrection was about to fail, not because Christian Europe was not sympathetic with the movement, but because the nations of Europe are undecided who to place in authority in lieu of the Turk. He says: "The Ottoman role is sinking fast, and would be thrown aside by any well organized movement of all the Christians of the Empire." The general opinion in Europe seems to be that the Eastern question will before long be solved by Russia getting possession of Constantinople.

PROGRESS, DECIDEDLY.—The National Intelligencer gives utterance to the following: "There never can be stable peace in this country until the colored race are made entirely equal before the law in regard to civil rights. It is desirable that after long and injurious agitation, the South should spontaneously do this."

A Mammoth Corporation.

The mail and express companies west of the Missouri river have been consolidated under the name of Wells, Fargo & Co. The capital is $10,000,000. Louis McLean, Esq., formerly of San Francisco, and chief manager for Wells, Fargo & Co., is President of the new company and will hereafter reside in New York. The companies consolidated are Holladay's Mail and Express lines west of the Missouri river, extending to Salt Lake City, and north to Montana and Idaho; the Overland Mail Company between Salt Lake and Virginia City, Nevada; the Pioneer Stage Company between Virginia City and Sacramento, or rather to the Eastern end of the Central Pacific Railway. The company will cover some four thousand miles of stage and express lines. Wells, Fargo & Co. embrace the whole Pacific coast with their express business, and will extend their lines by the new steamers to the Sandwich Islands, Japan, China, and Eastern Asia. The new company have purchased all the interests of the American and United States Express companies west of the Missouri river, so that with the exception of the Oregon Steam Navigation Company and the railways, they control the passenger and express business of the entire Continent west of the Missouri river.

RHEUMATISM CONQUERED IN TWO DAYS.

READ THE FOLLOWING LOCAL TESTIMONY:

PITTSBURGH, November 10, 1866.

Messrs. McClarran & McKennan: Gentlemen—About ten days ago my wife was suffering with a severe attack of Inflammatory Rheumatism, which rendered her perfectly helpless, and could not be moved in bed without the greatest pain. I procured from you a bottle of Johnson's Rheumatic Compound; after taking it for one day, she could set up in bed, in three days she could go out and at present I rejoice to say is enjoying the most perfect health, which my wife and I are satisfied is entirely owing to the use of that valuable Compound. Yours truly,

W. M. WARD,
Stage Manager of the Opera House.

GLASS WORKS PROPERTY For Sale.

A SPLENDID SITE LOCATED in Monongahela City, Washington county, Pa., owned by Wm. Ihmsen, deceased, containing about 2½ acres, with a front of 340 feet, more or less, on the principle business street, and running back to the creek, thus making it one of the best locations for a Glass Works Rolling Mill or Woolen Factory that can be found on the Monongahela river. On the same property is a brick row containing seven two story tenements, one two story store room and ware room. Also, two one acre lots in said city. Convenient to this property can be had limestone, coal and wood in abundance. Being only 30 miles from Pittsburgh on the Monongahela river, with two lines of steamers daily, makes it very desirable property for manufacturing purposes. The above described property will be offered at private sale until the SECOND TUESDAY IN DECEMBER, and if not sold at that time will be auctioned off on the premises. For price and terms inquire of D. IHMSEN of the firm of Cunningham & Ihmsen, Glass Manufacturers, No. 169 WATER STREET, Pittsburgh, Pa. no20kss

WANTED.—AGENTS FOR THE PICTORIAL BOOK OF ANECDOTES AND INCIDENTS OF THE REBELLION; Heroic, Patriotic, Romantic, Humorous and Tragical, Splendidly Illustrated with over 300 fine Portraits and Beautiful Engravings.

There is a certain portion of the war that will never go into the regular histories, nor be embodied in romance or poetry, which is a very real part of it, and will, if preserved, convey to succeeding generations a better idea of the spirit of the conflict than many dry reports or careful narratives of events, and this part may be called the gossip, the fun, the pathos, of the war.

These illustrate the character of the leaders, the humor of the soldiers, the devotion of women, the bravery of men, the pluck of our heroes, the romance and hardships of the service. From the beginning of the war the author has been engaged in collecting all the anecdotes connected with or illustrative of it, and has grouped and classified them under appropriate heads, and in a very attractive form.

The volume is profusely illustrated with over 300 engravings by the first artists, which are really beautiful; worthy of examination as specimens of art. Many of them are set into the body of the text, after the popular style of Lossing's Pictorial Field Book of the Revolution. The book's contents include reminiscences of camp, picket, spy, scout, bivouac, siege and battlefield adventures; thrilling feats of bravery, wit, drollery, comical and ludicrous adventures, etc., etc.

Amusement as well as instruction may be found in every page, as graphic detail, brilliant wit and authentic history, are skillfully interwoven in this work of literary art. The people are tired of dry details and partisan works and want something humorous, romantic and startling. Our agents are making from $100 to $200 per month, clear of all expenses. Send for circulars, giving full particulars, and see our terms and proof of the above assertion. Address, Disinfectants.

The Comite Consultatif d'Hygiene has addressed a report to the Minister of the Interior on the disinfecting substances and processes in use in the hospitals, especially during epidemics. M. Dumas, the reporter, places ammonia, chloride of lime, and phenic acid at the head of the list of disinfectants, considering them as special agents for purifying the air. Regarding unventilated cholera wards, the only precaution he prescribes is merely that of disinfecting the air; but if the wards be provided with ventilators, it is necessary to prevent the mismata from spreading; for, when drawn in by the ventilating orifices, they are carried off to the general chimney, whence they get into the atmosphere, and so might cause infection outside the hospital. M. Dumas, therefore to prevent this, recommends that vessels containing chloride of lime and evolving chlorine be placed: First, on the floor of the ward, near the orifices of inspiration; Second, in the abduction pipe itself, so far as practicable; and Third, in the interior of the general chimney where all the pipes meet. When a choleratic patient has died, phenic acid is sprinkled all around the bed; in the coffin the body rests on chloride of lime, and the remainder of the space is filled with sawdust impregnated with phenic acid. Lastly, when the coffin is placed in the grave, and the latter partly filled up, a layer of chloride of lime is spread all over, and moistened with a watering pot; the grave is then completely filled up, and chloride of lime is again sprinkled upon it, but this time without wetting it.

Terrible Disease.—A benevolent gentleman, riding through a retired valley among the Green Mountains, approached a house, in the front door of which stood a baby, which was shielded from the dangers of foreign travel by a board placed across the bottom of the door-way, but which, on the other hand, was exposed to danger at home, as the gentleman thought, by reason of a huge two-inch mortising chisel, which the infant brandished about its molasses daubed face in a frightful manner. The philanthropist alighted and, taking the child's fist in one hand and the sharp utensil in the other, explored the house until he found the maternal ancestor. "Madam," said he, "I thought it my duty to stop and tell you that your little child had got the chisel." "Oh, sir," said she, "I am ever so much obliged to you. I knew something was the matter with the child and didn't know what it was. They've got it awful down to Bennington."

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

PENNSYLVANIA SS.

Andrew G. Curtin, Governor of said Commonwealth.

Whereas, It hath been the good and worthy custom of the Commonwealth to set apart, annually, a day for the special acknowledgment of the goodness of the Almighty, and for expressing, by the whole people, at one time, and with a common voice, the Thanks and Praise which throughout the year are springing from the hearts of men; therefore,

I, Andrew G. Curtin, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do, by this my Proclamation, recommend that the good people of the Commonwealth observe

Thursday, the 29th day of November next,

as a day of Thanksgiving and Prayer, and do then assemble in their respective Churches and places of worship, and make their humble thank-offering to Almighty God for all His blessings during the past year.

For the abundant gathered fruits of the earth;

For the thus far continued activity of Industry;

For the general preservation of Health;

And especially for that in His Divine Mercy, He hath stayed the threatened Pestilence.

And, moreover, that they do beseech Him to continue unto us all His Blessings, and to confirm the hearts of the people of these United States, that by the lawful force of their will, Deeds of good Justice, Wisdom and Mercy may be done.

Given under my hand and the great seal of the State, at Harrisburg, this twenty-ninth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, and of the Commonwealth the ninety-first.

By the Governor:

ELI SLIFER,
Secretary of the Commonwealth. td

"A VALUABLE MEDICINE.—Dr. Poland's White Pine Compound, advertised in our columns, is a successful attempt to combine and apply the medicinal virtues of the White Pine Bark. It has been thoroughly tested by people in this city and vicinity, and the proprietor has testimonials of its value from persons well known to our citizens. We recommend its trial in all those cases of disease to which it is adapted. It is for sale by all our druggists."—New York Independent.

The great New England Remedy, DR. J. W. POLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND, is now offered to the afflicted throughout the country, after having been proved by the test of eleven years, in the New England States, where its merits have become as well known as the tree from which, in part, it derives its virtues.

The WHITE PINE COMPOUND cures Sore Throat, Colds, Coughs, Diptheria, Bronchitis, Spitting of Blood, and Pulmonary Affections generally. It is a remarkable remedy for Kidney Complaints, Diabetes, Difficulty of Voiding Urine, Bleeding from the Kidney and Bladder, Gravel and other complaints. For Piles and Scurvy it will be found very valuable.

Give it a trial if you would learn the value of a good and tried medicine. It is pleasant, safe and sure. Sold by Druggists and dealers in medicines generally. no7-ym Tu.Th.S

Omaha, N. T., from 1,400 to 2,000 head blocks.
San Francisco, Cal., from 800 to 1,000 head blocks.

2. The head blocks to be made in accordance with the specifications, and to conform strictly to the samples, both of which may be seen at the offices of the Depot or Chief Quartermasters at Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Washington, Fortress Monroe, Richmond, Raleigh, Newbern, Fayetteville, Charleston, Savannah, Augusta, (Ga.) Tallahassee, Mobile, New Orleans, Galveston, Vicksburg, Memphis, Nashville, Chattanooga, Murfreesborough, Louisville, Cairo, Chicago, Jeffersonville, Columbus, (Ohio,) Cincinnati, Detroit, St. Louis, Fort Leavenworth, Omaha, Little Rock, and San Francisco. (Bids for San Francisco will be received until December 31, 1866.)

3. They will be about nine (9) inches high, from ten (10) to twelve (12) inches long, and from three and a half (3½) to four and a half (4½) inches wide, with a flange around the bottom. They will be hollow, and will have a number cast on the back, and an inscription of the name, rank, regiment, army, company, or corps, and date of death of deceased, cast in raised letters on the top. They must be cast of good stove-plate iron, weigh not less than twenty (20) lbs each, and be coated thoroughly by dipping in melted zinc.

4. Separate bids are invited for delivery at each place; and in case the same parties offer to supply more than one locality, it should be stated at what reduced price the articles would be furnished in the increased number.

5. Each bid must be accompanied by a good and sufficient guarantee of at least two responsible parties that the contract, if awarded, will be faithfully and promptly executed. (The responsibility of the guarantors must be shown by the official certificate of the clerk of the nearest District Court, or of the United States District Attorney.)

6. The Government reserves to itself the right to reject all bids if unsatisfactory; and to delay the award not later than the first of January, 1867, and also, in some instances, to change the points of delivery of a portion of the head blocks, in which case a reasonable allowance for increased or deduction for diminished transportation will be made.

7. The time of delivery to be subject to future arrangement, sufficient time being allowed after the lists of names are furnished to the contractor.

8. The articles must conform rigidly to the sample, and will be subject to such inspection at the point of delivery as the Chief of the Bureau may direct.

9. The full name and post office address of the bidder should appear in the proposal.

10. Proposals should be plainly endorsed "Proposals for Iron Head Blocks," and be addressed "To the Quartermaster General, U. S. A., Washington, D. C."

LIGHT EQUAL TO GAS.

PATENT

GAS CONDENSING BURNERS

Can be used on any Lamp and Dispense entirely with Chimneys.

The flame produced by these Burners spreads out similar to that of Gas. The construction is such that the smoke is confined in a Gas condensing chamber, and is wholly converted into flame. The burner does not depend directly upon the wick for its light, but burns the smoke which is produced therefrom, and BURNS LESS OIL THAN CHIMNEY LAMPS, and produces a more brilliant light than any other burner in the market.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF PITTSBURGH, PA., (late Pittsburgh Trust Company,) Capital $500,000, paid in, with privilege to increase to $1,000,000.

The Pittsburgh Trust Company having organised under the Act to provide a National Currency, under the title of the FIRST NATIONAL BANK of PITTSBURGH, would respectfully offer its services for the collection of Notes, Drafts, Bills of Exchange, &c.; receive money on deposit, and buy and sell Exchange on all parts of the country.

The success which has attended the Pittsburgh Trust Company since its organization in 1852, will, we believe, be a sufficient guarantee that business entrusted to the new organization will receive the same prompt attention.

Having a very extensive correspondence with Banks and Bankers throughout the country, we believe we can offer unusual facilities to those who do business with us.

The business will be conducted by the same officers and Directors.

DIRECTORS:

James Laughlin, Alex. Speer,
Robert S. Hays, Francis G. Bailey,
Thomas Bell, John H. Ralston,
Thos. Wightman, John Wilson,

The Birmingham Water Works—A Powerful Engine.

The Birmingham Water Works are now in successful operation, and their benefits are being extended through most of the boroughs on the south side of the river. The works were started in February last, and after the difficulty experienced in the laying of the supply pipes was obviated, the citizens were and are now regularly supplied with water. During a brief visit to the works a few days since our attention was called to the new pumping engine invented by our fellow townsman, Jos. L. Lowry. The new engine possesses all the good qualities of the Cornish, Hornsby and ordinary high or low pressure engines, while costing less than one-third of the two first mentioned, and but little more than half of the latter. We regret that our space confines us to a brief description of the main features of the new engine, which is very simple in construction, and occupies about one-fourth of the room required by other enginces of equal capacity.

The new engine stands upright, the extreme length from the lower end of the pump to the upper end of the cylinder being forty one feet. The pump (which is double acting) is sixteen and a half inches in diameter. The steam cylinder (twenty-four inches in diameter) stands above the pump, each having ten feet stroke. When the engine is at work, the load of water on the pump is nineteen thousand seven hundred pounds; in addition to this load of water, a heavy cast iron weight, weighing ten thousand pounds, is attached to the pump rod, making a total of twenty-nine thousand and seven hundred pounds to be raised by the steam on the upward stroke. To lift this immense load, steam is admitted into the steam cylinder at seventy-six pounds to the square inch, exerting a pressure on the steam piston of thirty-three thousand two hundred and eighty-eight pounds, (or three thousand five hundred and eighty-eight pounds more than the weight on the pump,) sufficient to overcome the friction of the machinery and water in the rising main.

At the end of the up-stroke, the steam, instead of being exhausted as worthless as in other engines, is exhausted into a reservoir of about four times the capacity of the cylinder, rising instantly to thirty seven pounds, and falling in the cylinder to the same pressure; the exhaust valve now rises and permits the steam remaining under the piston-head in the cylinder to escape, a check reserving the steam in the reservoir, which now acts with a downward pressure of sixteen thousand seven hundred and twenty four pounds on the upper side of the piston head; this steam pressure, united with the cast iron weight (which now falls by its gravity as in the Cornish engine,) makes a downward pressure of twenty six thousand seven hundred and twenty-four pounds (or five thousand four hundred and twenty four pounds more than the pressure on the pump).

The intelligent mechanic will perceive from the foregoing statement that the new principle saves nearly fifty per cent. in fuel alone; inasmuch as the pressure at the beginning of the downstroke is sixteen thousand seven hundred and twenty-four pounds, diminishing at the end of the stroke to thirteen thousand five hundred and sixty pounds, making an average steam pressure on the piston on the down stroke of fifteen thousand one hundred and forty-two pounds saved out of thirty three thousand two hundred and eighty-eight pounds used on the up-stroke. But the result is still more favorable when compared with the duty of the Pittsburgh and Allegheny pumping engines.

The official report for the year ending February, 1865, of the Pittsburgh Water Works, represents 1,014,577 cubic feet of water raised 160 feet high per day as the average duty; the daily consumption being 680 bushels of coal. The average daily duty of the hill engines for the same year was 211,097 cubic feet of water raised a height of 230 feet; average daily consumption 171 bushels of coal. The Allegheny engines consume on an average 300 bushels of coal per day, and raise 488,030 cubic feet of water 190 feet high.

The engineer of the Monongahela Water Works states that he has run his engine nine hours and a half with but thirty-nine bushels of coal, the engine averaging seven and a half strokes per minute, each stroke lifting two hundred and fourteen gallons, or 122,312 cubic feet of water, which was raised two hundred and ten feet high in the nine hours and thirty minutes. To enable our readers to determine the relative merit of the engines alluded to, we append a statement of their respective duties when brought to a uniform standard:

The following table exhibits the number of cubic feet of water raised ten feet high for each bushel of coal consumed:

Pittsburgh Lower Water Works	23,872
Pittsburgh Hill " "	28,393
Allegheny " "	29,138
Monongahela " "	65,850

It will be seen from this table that the Monongahela engine performs a duty of nearly sixty eight per cent. more than the Pittsburgh Lower Works, and about sixty per cent. more than the Allegheny or Hill Water Works, all the engines mentioned using the same kind of boilers, except the Lower Works, which employed the old-style cylinder boilers.

Desiring to know how our engines would compare with the Cornish engines employed in the Cleveland and Louisville water works, we have been kindly furnished with a statement of the respective duties of these engines during the past year, in Cornish duty. Following we give a table of the duties of the various engines mentioned, estimated by the Cornish rule, which is simply the number of pounds of water raised one foot per each hundred pounds of coal consumed:

Average duty of Louisville Cornish engine	42,558,300
" Cleveland "	41,003,000
" Monongahela engine	73,500,000
" Allegheny "	24,630,000
" Pittsburgh Hill engine	23,600,000
" " Lower engine	20,000,000

From the above, it will be seen that the Monongahela engine is nearly one fifth higher in the duty performed than the Cleveland or Louisville Cornish engine, both of which are well felted and jacketed to prevent the condensation of steam, while the Monongahela engine remains wholly uncovered, exposing about five hundred and fifty square feet of surface to the air. When the engine is well covered, and the machinery steam-tight, there is not a doubt but that it will exceed its present duty by at least 15 [...]

FINANCE AND TRADE.

MONDAY, November 19th 1866.

The local money market evinced a good deal of closeness to-day, not so much, we think, from any great scarcity of loanable funds as a lack of confidence—which feeling of late appears to be gaining ground.

—The following statement exhibits the business of the Pittsburgh Clearing House for the week closing on Saturday, November 17th:

	Exchanges.	Balances.
November 12	$423,352 22	$ 94,269 41
November 13	395,831 34	106,748 30

November 15	411,337 98	113,684 20
November 16	438,787 09	68,378 75
November 17	312,892 94	50 133 70
Total	$2,300 541 94	$502 993 71

—The New York stock market recovered partially from the depression of Saturday, but, as the Advertiser of that city remarks, "does not appear to have reached a level at which there is confidence in buying for a rise. The outside public—at present the principal holders of stocks—have been generally frightened into realizing, and are in many instances very badly fleeced; so much so, indeed, that when they get fairly out of the meshes they are not likely to be found in Wall street again for some time; and for this reason it would not be surprising should a period of dullness set in after the present excitement.

—We present below our usual noon quotations as received at the stock rooms of S. S. Bryan:

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL, TUESDAY, November 21, 1866.

Business yesterday was moderately active. Buyers of Crude were more disposed to operate; prices, however, remain unchanged. The late rise from the head-waters of the Allegheny is sending out large quantities of the raw material. The receipts since our last reach 13,931 barrels. It may be proper to remark that a large amount of these receipts goes to fill previous contracts, sales being made deliverable on the first water, consequently the stock of Crude on hand for sale is not large. The following parcels were disposed of:

CRUDE—Sales 2,000 barrels bulk at 10¼c; 1,000 barrels packages returned, at 10½c; sales 330 barrels Horse Creek, a heavy article, at 11c, packages returned; sales 110 barrels, including packages, at 16c; sales 700 barrels bulk, light, 10c. Total sales 4 140 barrels.

REFINED OIL—Was neglected, the Eastern news not being considered favorable. Buyers were disposed to wait, the only sales reported being 1,000 barrels bonded, February delivery, Philadelphia, 35c. Later in the day that figure could not be obtained, 33c being the best offer for immediate delivery.

Boston Petroleum Market.

The market, according to the Bulletin of Saturday, is a little active than last reported, so far as the export trade is concerned. The decline in gold, and a material falling off in European prices, have entirely cut off the shipping margin, and the filling of many orders is temporarily suspended. The markets, however are not yet fully supplied and the export movement will doubtless start up again as soon as the equilibrium of prices is restored.

In the home trade there is more activity in refined oil, as the wants of consumption are beginning to press heavily upon distributors. But there is no general stocking up movement as in former years, when the production was limited, and prices, on the whole, are a shade lower.

We quote crude petroleum quiet at 26a27c; refined is lower and selling in large lots, in bond, at 37a41c; do duty paid is in fair demand from the trade at 55a61c, including western and Boston, the outside rate for Kerosene. Naptha is selling at a range of 25a35c ₩ gallon, as to gravity.

WOOL MARKETS.

BOSTON.

The market, according to the Bulletin, exhibits no improvement, either in demand or prices. On the contrary, with the goods market unnaturally and unseasonably depressed, buyers are asking a further concession, and obtaining it in some cases. In fact, manufacturers utterly refuse to increase their supply of material unless they can make their own prices; [...]

THE DRY GOODS TRADE.

CONDITION AND PROSPECTS OF THE LEADING MARKET.

The market is in a very unsettled state, quite irregular and panicky, although, on Saturday, it was a little more quiet and steady. During the last three days of the week there was a decline of 5a15 per cent. upon almost all kinds of leading articles of dry goods. This irregular reduction in prices has caused a wide variation in quotations at different houses; and with the still declining tendency of cotton and gold, prices are still quite nominal.

Trade halts, and stocks have so accumulated, in many instances, says the Commercial List, as to reach rather alarming proportions. The long continued depression in the woolen goods market reacts upon manufacturers with serious effect. We have already noted a few failures among woolen manufacturers, and production is gradually being curtailed, because the present large stocks of goods cannot be disposed of, even at the extreme low prices ruling. The disinclination of the banks to make advances in the present critical condition of trade contributes to the depression. It is idle to further reduce prices on woolen goods in the present state of trade and the currency, as this would only contribute to the current losses, without materially stimulating business. Added to other troubles, the payments from the interior are anything but prompt, while the credit system has imprudently been revived. It is feared that extensive embarrassments will ere long fall upon the woolen interest as the result of the depression which has so long prevailed. Cotton manufacturers, on the other hand, are generally represented to be in a thriving condition; dividends are being declared, and new factories projected. It is understood that the woolen interest will seek relief in a reduction of duties on the raw materials entering into the manufacture of woolen goods, and also a reduction of internal taxation during the ensuing session of Congress.

Business has been very unsatisfactory, according to the Commercial Advertiser, notwithstanding the endeavors to attract trade, and the agents seem to be entirely in the hands of the jobbers, even if they do not second their efforts at disposing of goods which has resulted in this decline.

The reduction has been most marked in some makes of bleached goods—Prints and standard Browns and Delaines; there are, however, no goods which have escaped the general onslaught.

BROWN SHEETINGS AND SHIRTINGS.

Agents have held up manfully in their efforts to maintain prices and save the interests of the manufacturers, but the absence of business, and the general tendency of all goods toward an ante-war basis, has compelled a material reduction in prices and although there seem more quiet to-day, the market is far from settled. There is no further decided change in prices of standards to notice this morning, but there are very few sales taking place.

BLEACHED SHEETINGS AND SHIRTINGS.

We reduce our quotations of many kinds of bleached goods this morning and take the lowest quotation from the many irregular reports.

PRINTS.

The prices of prints have been very much reduced during the last three days, and still without attracting any great demand. Jobbers seem anxious to clear their floors of goods rather than to be able to buy new supplies.

Stripes and ticks, and in fact almost all the other kinds of cotton goods, are without any change or variation from the general remarks above worthy of detail. They have not been the special object of attention like the leading articles of domestics.

FOREIGN GOODS.

These goods have followed other dry goods and gold in a further general decline, although there has been a very fair business done during the past three days. The auction sales have been rather better attended, but prices have been very low.

The importation of foreign goods continues high, and it may be expected that a better foundation for business will soon be reached. Stocks are becoming reduced, and a healthy reaction is not improbable at an early day.

The Economist mentions the following items: We notice that the Knit Goods Manufacturer are determined to do something to redeem the market from its present torpid state, and at the Manufacturers' Meeting it was determined to stop the mills for at least two months. [...]

New York Dry Goods Market.

NEW YORK, November 19.—There is considerable irregularity of feeling and opinion in the dry goods market. The absence of buyers from the jobbing houses indicates a further decline in goods, while on the contrary the agents accept the steadiness of the cotton market as a more hopeful sign. There is but little decided change in prices from Saturday, although the present quotations are nominal and prices tend downward. Should there be a reaction in cotton and gold, dry goods would quickly feel it: but should both continue downward, dry goods must follow. The price of Sprague's prints was reduced one cent a yard on Saturday afternoon by both agents and jobbers. The business is, however, not much increased. Print cloths are reported firmer this morning, with no sellers at 12c for 64x64 cloth. Brown and bleached domestics are nominally lower. The heavy decline last week called in but little trade. Ticks and denims are very quiet. The market has no working basis on which to give reliable prices.

Brown Sheetings—Appleton A, 21c; Cabot A, 20c; Ludlow A, 18c. Bleached Shirtings—James, 25c; Hope, 25c; Canoe, 12c. Prints—Garner & Co., 19c; Pacific, 18c; Lowell 15½c.

In the market for spring woolens there is a lighter demand, as there is for linseys and flannels, but generally there is but little to say beyond what has been reported for the entire season. The light importations has much revived the market for foreign goods, and caused holders to show more confidence. Should importations continue light, and the fair demand continue, the leading kinds of foreign goods must become scarce and wanted. The absence of auction sales gives a temporary lull to business to-day.

Toledo Market.

TOLEDO, November 19.—Flour dull. Wheat, winter, a shade lower: sales No. 1 red wabash, $2 82; amber Michigan $2 78; No. 1 spring $2 17a2 18; corn 4½c lower, opening at 89c, closing dull at 85½c for No. 1 mixed. Oats 1c lower 42c. Lake freights 8c offered on corn to Buffalo by steam.

New Orleans Market.

NEW ORLEANS, November 19.—Cotton firm; sales of 1,400 bales; low middling, 31a32c; middling, 34c; receipts, 4,800 bales. Sugar dull; fair, 12½c. Molasses dull; prime, 70c; choice, 75a80c. Sterling exchange, 54. New York exchange, ¼a½ premium. Freights unaltered.

Milwaukee Market.

MILWAUKEE, November 19.—Flour dull and declined 5a10c. Wheat declined 2a5c; sales at $2 07a2 08 for No. 1, and $1 87 for No 2. Oats 45c.
